The English Symposium: The purpose of this annual symposium is to capture a snapshot of the intergenerational and multifaceted contributions of students, alumni, and faculty to our dynamic learning community. In this one-day event we seek not only to highlight the importance of the humanities in the university but also to foster a sense of shared discourse and intellectual collaboration.

The Symposium Theme: This year's symposium explores the notion of becoming (de)familiarized with multiple aspects of the self, the other, and the world. With this theme, we celebrate and discuss the rich diversity of creative, scholarly, and pedagogical work that we do as students, faculty, and independent scholars.

In philosophical, psychoanalytic, cultural, socio-historical, and literary theory, the unfamiliar, or uncanny, is often shunned in favor of other subjects or objects that define normality. These safe subjects provide a haven for readers and writers of fiction, players of video games, and audience members of film, all of whom yearn for physical and mental comfort. However, a fine line exists between "normal" and "unusual"; subjects we may find reassuring may contain elements that others find horrendous. Alternatively, terrifying subjects may exhibit traits of familiarity that draw us, as readers, players, and viewers, closer to the image/text. By making ourselves familiar with the unfamiliar and reimagining our perspectives on the normal, we may come to understand subjects more fully and widen our intellectual horizons.
