

English Composition Adjunct Instructors

The Writing Program in the Department of English at the University of Central Florida is seeking adjunct (part-time) instructors to teach one or two sections of English Composition (ENC 1101 and 1102) in Fall 2009.

Responsibilities include creating syllabi and assignments that adhere to Writing Program guidelines, responding to student drafts, and grading final papers. All composition instructors at UCF must attend an orientation in August and one writing-related workshop per semester.

To be considered for the position, applicants must have earned (at minimum) an MA in English or closely related field and have had experience teaching writing at the college level.

Applicants should submit a letter of intent, cv, composition course syllabus, and two composition-related assignments to:
